Service Marks:

Our Trademark Law has no provision as yet for the filing of service marks.

Mergers:

Our Trademark Law has no provision as yet for the filing of mergers.

Patents:

The Industrial Property Act prohibits the registration of patents. Registrations and pre-registrations at the Bureau for Intellectual Property in Suriname are thus not yet possible.

Validity of a registration and renewal:

Registrations and renewals are valid for a period a ten years, if the applications were filed after August 31, 1984.

The registrations or renewals filed before September 1, 1984 are valid for twenty years.

The application for renewal should be filed before the expiration date of the registration. The renewal is effective from the date of filing.

The Bureau for Intellectual Property grants us a “grace-period” of six months after the expiration date of a registration, within which the application for renewal can still be filed.
